DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-7 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1744

5. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Domodossola (6143225).

Domodossola teaches the claimed invention having the cooling turret block 34 with tubes arranged upon the faces 48, 50, the faces as seen in the Figures as being the platens. Domodossola also teaches a secondary embodiment in Figures 5-7 with the turret block rotatable and movable in a vertical motion. The turret block comprising of different elements including faces for the holding the tubes, the tubes acting as cavities for holding the preforms with the neck facing a downward position.

Domodossola teaches the receiving tubes, the tubes retaining the preforms with the aid of a vacuum, and the tubes can be connected to a water conduction cooling system and with means for blowing a cooling fluid to the exterior surfaces of the molded parts, see Col. 3, lines 25-43.

It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to recognize the turret 34 of Domodossola as the first and second bar of the parallelepiped with the first and second faces being the substantially rectangular plates.

6. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coran (2003/0003187).

Coran teaches the claimed invention having the cooling turret block 32 with tubes 44, 49 arranged upon the plates 45, 48 (Face A, Face B, see Figures 1-4). Coran teaches the turret block rotatable and the translation of the device to the molding apparatus, see Figure 1. The turret block comprising of different elements including faces for the holding the tubes, the tubes acting as cavities for holding the preforms with the neck facing a downward position. Coran teaches the receiving tubes, the tubes retaining the preforms with the aid of a vacuum, the preforms can be ejected in the lower position via mechanical or pneumatic means, see [0060].

It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to recognize the turret 32 of Coran as the first and second bar of the parallelepiped with the first and second faces being the substantially rectangular plates.
